

has just announced plans for one of its own.

● Is this a sign that the Cameroonian leadership of the Conservative Party is working its magic?

Entrepreneurs' network The Supper Club has invited the shadow minister for small business and enterprise, Mark Prisk, to attend one of its dinners at the end of the month.

Says Supper Club founder Duncan Cheatle: "Our lot are keen to find out what a Tory government would do for small businesses".

Joining the club: Mark Prisk